Land Trust green lights ledges effort

Hopes to partner with residential developer

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Mahoosuc Land Trust has agreed to tackle the job of protecting two landmark rock ledges in Woodstock: Buck's Ledge, which overlooks North Pond, and nearby Lapham Ledge, which overlooks Bryant Pond village and Lake Christopher.

And, in what is believed to be only the second such arrangement in Maine, the local Land Trust is looking for developer to partner with in the effort.

The innovative approach is due in part to the nature of the 640-acre parcel that includes the two ledges.

While the ledges and the lands immediately around them are considered environmentally sensitive and in need of protection, the remaining 180 acres of land — in the valley between the ledges — does not meet the land trust's land-protection criteria.

In fact, the trust describes those 180 acres as "accessible by a logging road and well suited for residential development."

The Land Trust has been studying the feasibility of protecting the ledges since last year, when it was approached by the Buck's Ledge Committee — a group of local residents and others concerned about future of the property.

The two ledges have been used by generations of Woodstock and Greenwood residents, as well as visitors, for hiking and picnicking.

And even casual passers-by on Route 26 can hardly fail to note Buck's Ledge, which dominates the landscape behind North Pond.

BPD considering night-vision camera to combat recent spate of vandalism

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Police Department is considering installing a night-vision surveillance camera to help identify the individual or individuals responsible for several incidents of vandalism in the general area of Bethel Park Apartments, Crescent Park School and Sudbury Village Apartments.

The major problem has been with damage to the tires of residents and visitors to the apartment complex, but other area residents have also reported loud nighttime partying and some vandalism in the wooded area behind the grammar school.

The tire damage, said Police Chief Alan Carr, "has involved a lot of tires and a lot of money."

One of the tires damaged, Carr said, was on a Bethel Police cruiser.

Charlie Kimball, a resident of Bethel Park Apartment, said the damage has run into the thousands of dollars.

"Everybody in the park has been affected," Kimball said. "All of my tires have plugs in them, and when I go for inspection, they'll all have to be replaced."

The possible consequences of the situation go well beyond the financial.

"They're endangering the lives of children," said Roberta Hunt, owner-operator of a daycare in the apartment complex. "If a tire blows out when a child is being taken home from daycare, there could be a serious accident."

The incidents have taken place over the course of the past six to eight weeks, Hunt said.

After an initial flurry, the incidents died down, then picked up again over the past week.

"There's no rhyme nor reason to why and when this is happening," Hunt said.

Most, but not all, of the damage has taken place at night, Carr said.

His department has periodically staked out the area, he

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE POLICE

To the Editor:

I offer three suggestions to the Bethel Police Department to increase highway safety in our area:

1. Enforce the 35 mph speed limit on Route 2 in the vicinity of the Rite Aid. Although tragic accidents make it easy to understand calls to install a traffic light, to do so would almost certainly make a bad situation worse. Imagine the high-speed rear-ending when trucks coming eastbound over the overpass find they can't stop quickly enough for a light. Instead of a light, we need aggressive enforcement of the speed limit. Most trucks going both east and west on Route 2 in that area routinely travel well in excess of the limit, but I have never seen a patrol car there. A few days of consistent radar patrols would solve the problem.

2. Enforce the passing-lane restriction on the hill on Route 2 westbound just beyond the Sunday River Road. From my observations, I estimate that fewer than half of all vehicles keep to the right. Those who insist on climbing in the left lane and below the speed limit tempt drivers to pass on the right. I've witnessed many near-accidents caused by that behavior, which could readily be stopped if the police cited drivers who stay in the left lane.

3. Put your own headlights on. Next to buckling up, the best practice encouraged by highway-safety experts is "lights on for safety." This is especially wise on two-lane roads. I have never seen a Bethel Police car with its lights on during the day. Indeed, I have several times seen patrol cars without headlights after dusk and during rain—two conditions in which "lights on for safety" is not merely good advice but the law. The department could set a good example by always using low-beam headlights.

Adopting these suggestions would not only improve safety in the community but would go a long way to repair the bad eye the department has inflicted on itself over the past few months, a condition universally commented on by every resident of the area I have talked to.

WHY DID YOU COME TO GILEAD?

To the Editor:

I have friends in Gilead, they love it there, however, now that Gilead is becoming a "big city" with stringent rules, and fancy ordinances, my friends are considering selling their home. How sad for them, that a few could spoil it for many.

The question from me is if you wanted all the rules and ordinances why Gilead with a population less than 500 people?

Why did not you just stay where you were? I have read letters from townspeople that are disturbing, no wonder people that come from south of Portland, Maine are called names, (which I will not bother to spell out).

The state of Maine rules and the selectmen's handling things worked pretty well, people might develop and others may come to enjoy Gilead, so what? You love it do you not or do you?

"Where I came from we did it this way." I think that Maine people are real tired of hearing that. People do not care. Can you not just go to Maine and enjoy what we have there and let others enjoy life in Gilead without so much trouble. If you cannot please consider selling out and moving on or back where you came from or to some place where people want your rules and control.

If you want a political position how about running for governor? Do not stop with mayor of Gilead or assistant mayor.

PLEASE RETURN THE FLAMINGOS

To the Editor:

Many of you have seen the "flock" of flamingos around our community lately and know that the Bethel Alliance Youth Group have been using them to raise money for their summer youth events.

This fundraiser has been very successful and has also created numerous conversations and chuckles.

We have been very blessed not only by our own congregation, but by the support of many community members. We would like to take this opportunity to say thank you and express our sincere gratitude for your generosity.

We would also like to ask that the individuals who removed 40 of our flamingos from the Saunders Mill yard if they would please return them to the Bethel Alliance Church (across from the Telstar High School parking lot).

We only have a few more weeks left to complete this fundraiser and having all 80 is very crucial. I would also like to acknowledge Saunders Mill for donating a substantial amount of money once they had discovered the lost flamingos.

This act was above and beyond kindness and we thank you from the bottom of our hearts. Thank you for reminding us that we do live in a wonderful community, despite little bumps in the road. God Bless,

Lisa Pivin

SUPPER TO HELP PUT A NEW ROOF ON LEGION HALL

To the Editor:

The Locke Mills Legion Hall is a wonderful facility that has been the setting for countless community events. The Legion and Auxiliary have raised and donated money to a huge variety of causes over the years.

It is easy to take this facility for granted. It always seems to be there when needed. Right now, the Legion needs the help of the community to undertake a major project: replacing the roof, to the tune of $15,000.

The Oxford County Democrats have used the hall off and on for years and will be pitching in on Thursday, July 28, with an old-fashioned Chicken Pie Supper at 5:30 p.m. All funds from the supper, which is being prepared by Leah Deegan and her crew, will go to the Roof Fund. Governor John Baldacci will attend the supper.

Following the supper, things will be more "political" with some activities to benefit the county Democrats. Those who just want to enjoy the good food and support the Roof Fund can make their escape if they wish. Details about the supper are included on The Citizen's calendar page this week.

GARDENS TO FIT THE LANDSCAPE

To the Editor:

"Gardens to Fit the Landscape" is the theme of this year's Mahoosuc Land Trust Garden Tour. At three of the gardens on the tour participants will be able to talk with a garden designer about the garden at hand and about their own garden as well. Garden designers Ann Friedlander, Becky Seacrest and Cathy Ford will share their expertise.

The tour, from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on July 31, begins at the library in Bryant Pond. Tickets, maps and other information are available there. Bring a picnic lunch. The land trust is providing beverages and dessert. The cost is $12 per person.

The gardens: 1) Gil Whitman, sculptor — Industrial Age sculpture outside and more art inside the house, Bryant Pond; 2) Beth and Walter Brough — spectacular views, native specimen trees and plantings. Lunch at Mt. Abram; 3.) Pat and Henry Stewart — terraced hillsides and lakeside bog garden; 4.) Donna Primozich — well-known shade garden featuring a large hosta collection, North Norway. Visit in any order. FMI: call Ginger Kelly at 824-2686.

MORE DETAILS ON NTL FEST

To the Editor:

Bethel Residents are invited to attend many of the events included in the two-week NTL Fest, a series of workshops, working meetings and social gatherings for NTL members and other NTL affiliates. The Fest begins with an official opening at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 6 at the NTL campus on upper Broad Street, including a collective reflection on the long relationship between NTL and Bethel. Bethel residents are encouraged to attend the opening and share their memories.

Residents are also invited to attend a potluck gathering at the Bingham House (the big green house on upper Broad Street) at 6 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 11. This event, also intended to celebrate the relationship between Bethel and NTL. Please come and bring a dish to share.

A gala dinner dance will be held on the NTL campus on Saturday, Aug. 13. Residents can obtain a ticket for this event by contacting the NTL office (824-2151).

With the exception of NTL working meetings (Aug 7, 8 and 13) all workshops are open to Bethel residents. These will be held Aug. 9-12 and 15-19.

There is no fee for attending these; however, registration is strongly encouraged. There are also several multi-day programs open to residents for a fee, including a writing workshop and a program on peace-building. Please visit the NTL website (www.ntl.org/ntlfest) or visit the NTL office for more detailed listings of programs.

Vandalism

said, but so far without success.

Carr has also been in touch with the Maine state police about setting up a night-vision surveillance camera.

"They'll slip up eventually," he said.

Nearby, in the woods between Crescent Park School and the Sudbury Village apartment complex, the past few weeks have also been the site of late-night partying, and some vandalism.

That vandalism has so far been minor, but residents of Sudbury Village, many of them elderly, have become concerned about the disrupt-tive nighttime activity in their backyard.

"This has just got to stop," said Ginny Walker, a resident and former manager of the apartment complex.

Carr said he believes there is a possibility the partying and tire damage are connected.

"It's definitely an avenue we're looking into," he said.

The recent spate of such incidents is an exception in a summer during which there have been relatively few complaints about vandalism and criminal mischief, the chief said.

He urged residents who might have information about the problem to call the Bethel Police Department during the day (824-3437).

Anyone who observes such activity, or thinks they hear loud or suspicious noises in the area, is urged to call 911 immediately.

Someone apprehended for damaging the tires would not only face criminal charges, Carr said; they would also be looking at the likelihood of being compelled to pay the cost of replacing all the damaged tires.

If an accident were to result from the tire damage, the civil liabilities could run much higher.

To help save the monarch, spare the milkweed

By SALLY TAYLOR

Three years ago we had a meadow full of monarch butterflies. Last year I counted only two in my garden.

The milkweed plant is key to the monarchs' survival. Monarch butterflies lay their eggs only on the undersides of leaves of milkweed plants. When these eggs hatch, the larvae will feed exclusively on the milkweed leaves for about two weeks, growing larger and shedding at each stage until the large caterpillar creates the beautiful blue-green chrysalis suspended beneath a milkweed plant leaf. About 15 days later the adult butterfly emerges from the chrysalis. Without the milkweed host plant, the monarch butterfly could not complete its life cycle and successfully migrate. In short, it could not survive.

It is of concern that much of the milkweed plant, essential to monarchs, is being destroyed along the North American migration routes. How much is debatable, and exactly how or why is up to some speculation. Factors such as development and sprawl, roadside mowing and spraying all may play a part. Some consider milkweed a noxious plant, an untidy weed to be eliminated with weedkillers (which also kill any butterfly close to the targeted plant).

Each year in late August or early September, a generation of monarch butterflies will emerge from their chrysalises. Within a few days those beautiful new butterflies will begin a 2,500 mile odyssey from Maine, other northeastern states and Southern Canada to the Central Highlands of Mexico. Arriving there at their wintering grounds in about four to five weeks, the butterflies cover up to 250 miles per day, flying and gliding on the prevailing air currents, sometimes sharing air space with migrating hawks. On this journey the migrating butterflies will need nectar and water to drink, so they keep moving southward ahead of cold weather, finding patches of flowers and watering spots along their route at night.

Once in Mexico, the butterflies gather in a dozen specific overwintering areas in the Transvolcanic Range of mountains at 10,000-11,000 feet. Here they are sheltered in tall dense gray-green forests of Oyamel fir trees. Each two- to four-acre roosting site will host millions of butterflies which clump tightly together much like swarms of bees, where these Monarch butterflies will spend the winter. (November through March) Freak winter snowstorms, such as occurred Jan. 12-16, 2002, are devastating to the insects, which get too cold and wet, fall to the ground and die. An estimated 5 to 7 million butterflies perished in that storm alone.

If sun warms the air enough by noon, butterflies begin to move their wings to warm themselves. You can actually hear the flapping of those wings. Midday some insects will fly off to a nearby spring or to the dewdrops condensed on leaves and ground moss to drink. They will not need food all winter, only water.

In mid-March, these monarchs will "awaken," mate and begin their journey northward from the mountains of Central Mexico, first to the southern coast of Texas where the female will lay eggs on milkweed plants and die within a few days. The new generation will take 3-4 weeks to produce adult butterflies, which will then continue northward, following the growth cycles of the milkweed over and over for about six generations, until the Monarchs reach the northernmost extent of their journey. On this northern migration, the butterflies do not have the benefit of prevailing air currents, and so must fly. It is thus all the more important for them to have continuous food sources as they travel the 2,500 miles "home" to Maine and Southern Canada.

Much has been learned about this miraculous creature and its extraordinary journey since scientists began tagging the butterflies to track their migration patterns about 35 years ago, but there is still much to learn and understand. Meanwhile, we can all do our own small part in protecting their habitats, by nurturing the milkweed plants that grow so easily in our area, and by planting more where we can.

Fire ordinance turned down

NEWRY — Newry residents Monday voted 28-7 against adopting a new Fire Protection Ordinance that would have mandated sprinkler systems in new one- and two-family homes. Several of those opposed, including Kevin Slater, said homeowners should have the right to choose whether to be protected by sprinklers. Slater said he was in favor of educating people about the option, but it should not be forced on them. He also said it seemed most fires take place in older homes, and it might be worthwhile to offer those homeowners free safety inspections and advice. The proposal for the ordinance originated with subdivisions, but then expanded to all new homes, out of concern that the rules apply consistently to everyone. Bruce Pierce, Newry's assistant fire chief, spent a year and a half preparing the proposed ordinance. "I'd like to see it go back to subdivisions," he said. He added he would continue to work on possible guidelines for the future. Voters Monday approved changes to the road and sign ordinances and also approved amendments to Newry's Comprehensive Plan.

Natural-resources map presentation

BETHEL — The Bethel Planning Board will host a "Beginning with Habitat" presentation on comprehensive and open space planning on Monday, Aug. 1 at 10 a.m. in the meeting room of the Bethel Town Office. The meeting presenters are a unique partnership of private and government groups whose focus is the natural landscape. The Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife, the Maine Natural Areas program, the State Planning Office, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Maine Audubon Society, and other organizations have come together to help towns plan for open space. The Beginning with Habitat program has been shown in over 130 towns to date. In addition to the presentation which is intended to help people become aware of the threats to open space as well as its value now and in the future, the Beginning with Habitat program helps towns in their planning with Geographic Information Systems computer-generated maps and data about the natural resources of each town. Area Planning Board members, elected officials, and the public are invited to the presentation. For more information about the Beginning with Habitat programs go to www.beginningwith-habitat.org. Call the planning assistant at 824-2669 for additional information.

Governor here today

BETHEL — Gov. John Baldacci will make two public appearances in the area Thursday, July 28. At 2 p.m. he will be at Bethel's Best restaurant on Route 2, where he will speak on the Dirigo Health Plan. And at 5:30 he will join others at an old fashioned chicken pie supper at the Jackson-Silver American Legion Hall on the Gore Road in Locke Mills. The dinner is a fund raiser for a new roof for the Legion hall. The public is welcomed to attend either or both events.

So are Forest Rally racers

BETHEL — 2005 Maine Forest Rally drivers will be available to sign autographs at the Bethel Inn Conference Center from 5:30 to 7 p.m. today (Thursday, July 28). The public will also be able to see the race cars up close at the signing, and at two scrutineering (inspection) sessions at the Bethel Fire Station. Those sessions will take place today from 5 to 10 p.m. and on Friday from 7 a.m. to noon.

Skunk Run here Saturday

LOCKE MILLS — The third annual Skunk Run will take place Saturday, starting at the Jackson-Silver American Legion Post on the Gore Road. The fundraising motorcycle run is held in memory of Sandon Morgan, a Telstar High School graduate who died in a motorcycle accident three years ago. The funds support a scholarship for a Telstar student to attend Central Maine Community College, from which Morgan graduated. Last year's event raised $18,000. This year, more than 250 riders are expected to participate. The run starts at 10 a.m., covering a distance of 136 miles. The section of the Gore Road from Johnny's Bridge Road to the Jackson-Silver American Legion Post will be closed Saturday from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. After the run, there will be a pig roast and music with "The Suspects" at the legion hall.

Triathletes here Sunday

BETHEL — Three-hundred and twenty five triathletes will be descending upon Bethel on Sunday, July 31 for the 14th annual Maine State Triathlon Classic, organized by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and sponsored by Oxford Networks. The event check-in will be near the Gould Academy Fieldhouse, beginning at 6 a.m. The competitors will be riding their bikes as a warm-up down Route 5 south to the Bethel Inn boathouse where they will be swimming 1 km before transitioning on to their bikes for a 25-km race south on Route 5, then back to Bethel on Vernon Street. They will turn right at Main Street, then left at Railroad Street, before transitioning to their 5-km run across Gould Academy fields, onto Lover's Lane, through the woods to Grover Hill Rd and back across Lover's Lane to the finish line next to the fieldhouse. Motorists in and around Bethel village, Vernon Street, Route 5 and Lover's Lane should be advised to use caution. There may also be traffic delays between the hours of 8 a.m. (when the event starts at the Bethel Inn boathouse) and 11, when most of the competitors should be finishing at Gould Academy. For more information on the event, call the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce at 824-2282.

... and Eurobikes all weekend

NEWRY — On July 29-31, Sunday River's Jordan Grand Hotel will once again host the Western Maine European Motorcycle Meet. This event, in its sixth year, has grown to be the biggest event of its kind in Maine, New Hampshire or Vermont. Riders from all over the East Coast and Canada will be joining in the festivities. A "Vintage Tour," an "Adventure Tour" as well as a British and European motorcycle show are a few of the events planned for the weekend. Vendors displaying Ducatis, BMWs and Triumphs will be on hand to show the latest models. Saturday evening will feature a benefit luau for the National Marfan Foundation. The luau is $19.95 and reservations need to be made with Rene Jones at the Jordan. There will be a raffle for a number of prizes during a barbecue Sunday. For more information, call Mike Stackhouse at 836-2208 or go to www.eurobikemaine.org.

Selectman resigns

ANDOVER — Selectman chair Gerry Savitz has resigned his seat, effective Aug. 2, according to selectman Trudy Akers. He cited health and personal reasons. Savitz's term expires in March of 2007. An election to replace him will take place Nov. 8. Nomination papers will be available at the Town Office beginning Aug. 11, and must be turned in by Sept. 15.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Tuesday, July 26

At 1:15 p.m. Chief Alan Carr and Officer Buddy Richard responded to a report of a gas driveoff on Route 2. The vehicle was located and the driver returned and paid the bill.

Sunday, July 24

At 9:40 a.m. Officer Bill Britting received a report that vehicle parts had been stolen on the West Bethel Road.

At 5:33 p.m. Officer Rusty Daley responded to Route 26 for a report of a subject with a rifle in a field. When the officer spoke to him, the subject said he had shot at a coyote. The officer contacted the Warden Service about the subject hunting on Sunday.

Saturday, July 23

At 12:45 a.m. on Vernon Street Officer Mac McCormick arrested Patrick J. Feeney, 33, for OUI.

Friday, July 22

At 5:22 p.m. Officer Buddy Richard responded to the West Bethel Road for a report of a gas theft by a motorcyclist.

At 8:05 a.m. on Route 26 Sgt. S.R. White arrested Alain Camire, 19, of Windsor, Quebec for driving to endanger.

At 1:56 p.m. a subject turned in a pocketbook to the PD that had been found on the common.

Wednesday, July 20

At 11:15 a.m. Sgt. S.R. White received a complaint from a subject that a vehicle part and some cash had been taken from his unlocked vehicle on Broad Street.

Thursday, July 21

At 10:50 a.m. Chief Alan Carr received a request for harassment notices on several subjects.

Monday, July 18

At 10:50 a.m. Chief Alan Carr responded to a report of a property damage accident on the West Bethel Road. A driver had backed out into the street and struck another vehicle.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log. It lists all cases of adults being arrested or issued a criminal summon in the 10 days prior to the newspaper's publication, but does not include all reports of other police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies.

TOWER WINDOW

The living room in George and Danna Nickerson's home features a corner window seat (far corner), which on the exterior of the house appears as a tower. The house is furnished with furniture and other items from the couple's previous home, as well as sundry objets purchased in antique shops.

where, was unusual for Bethel.

"It never seemed to catch on here," Bennett said.

Bungalow features

The Kilborn Street home's three porches are typical of a bungalow, as are the gables and dormers.

The architectural style was originally associated with informality and natural settings as a summer cottage.

The Nickersons' home, known as the Hall House, was built by Dana and Alforeta Hall. It came into Danna's family in 1943, when it was purchased by her grandparents, Carl and Ruth Brown.

The Nickersons bought it in 1996 from Danna's uncle, John Brown, and set to work to restore the home as closely as possible to its original form.

In undertaking that project, and later applying for the register listing, Danna did many hours of research on both the general architecture styles and the house itself.

She learned the home is also an example of Craftsman Style architecture. The style came out of the Arts and Crafts Movement in England in the mid-19th century, which emphasized handcrafted materials and objects.

Its supporters felt the Industrial Revolution had devalued the work of craftsmen, and they sought to preserve the work in architecture.

Gustav Stickley was an American proponent of the style. He designed homes and their interiors. He published a magazine called The Craftsman, and he offered house plans by mail.

Stickley emphasized the importance of harmony between a house and its landscape. He encouraged people to build their own homes using local materials.

In the Nickerson's home, examples of the style include natural woodwork, a built-in china cupboard and bookcase, and a window seat located in a corner "tower" structure attached to the living room.

Anxious to preserve the craftsman style, "We tried to change as little as possible," Danna said.

They kept the plaster walls and all the original woodwork and windows, even hunting down wooden storm windows to put on the outside. They also refinished the wood floors.

Most of the work took place between July and October of 1997. They made some changes to the interior to create a more comfortable, and practical, living arrangement.

Then, in 2001, Danna set out to apply to the National Register.

That included converting the interior of the stable to living quarters for an elderly relative. But because they wanted the living area to be convertible back to a stable if they wished, they came up with a unique design.

The Nickersons built the living quarters within the stable — that is, the interior walls were constructed separately. And the wall facing the street stands six feet inside the stable doors.

"We wanted it to look original from the outside," said Danna. "If the stable doors are open, it still looks old."

After the major work was completed, they furnished the house with a combination of furniture from their previous home, items that came with the house and items purchased in antique stores.

They kept the plaster walls and all the original woodwork and windows, even hunting down wooden storm windows to put on the outside. They also refinished the wood floors.

Most of the work took place between July and October of 1997. They made some changes to the interior to create a more comfortable, and practical, living arrangement.

Then, in 2001, Danna set out to apply to the National Register.

And the house itself offered some clues. For example, the date "September 29, 1910" was written in pencil on a board inside the window seat, she said, leading her to believe the seat was one of the last projects completed before the family moved in.

The house was approved for inclusion in the register in late 2002.

Final step: the book

With all the information at hand that had been compiled and available from the Historic Register effort, Bennett then suggested that Danna write a book about the history of the house and the effort to restore it.

The result is "The Artistic Bungalow," a 30-page, seven-chapter book that went on sale early this month.

It covers the historical setting of the town and Kilborn Street, the architecture styles, the families that lived in the house, some of her personal childhood memories of the house and some interesting odds and ends of information.

The book's title comes from a reference in a 1981 Bethel Citizen to the Halls living in their "artistic bungalow," Danna, said.

Bennett said that when people come to BHS asking how to go about researching their own homes, he points to her book as a good example.

The book is available for purchase at the BHS Museum Shop.

Ledges

But with development pressure mounting on land in the Bethel area, members of the Ledge Committee, as well as many others, feared developers would buy up and subdivide the land that has traditionally provided access to the ledges.

And they cringed at the vision of trophy homes being built along the pristine ridge-line above the ledges.

The 640-acre parcel had been owned by the Mead Westvaco paper mill in Rumford, but it was sold in 2003 to an investment group, Bay Root L.L.C.

Bay Root has put much of its land holdings in Western Maine on the market, said the land trust's Marcel Polak, but the company has agreed to hold ledges parcel off, in order to give the Land Trust time to attempt to put together a purchase package.

The Land Trust has already been in discussion with six developers, both local and from away, Polak said, and it expects to issue a formal request for proposals by the end of the week.

Jim Mitchell, Land Trust executive director, said: "A partnership with a developer will reduce the cost of the project for the [ledge] committee and the land trust ... The Land Trust will request proposals from developers who wish to work with the organization and the committee to develop an environmentally sensitive residential development in the valley between the ledges, while protecting environmental and recreational values on the remainder of the land."

Cathy Newell, chair of the Ledge Committee said the group was delighted with the Land Trust's decision.

"The Ledge Committee will now buckle down to the real work of making this project happen, with continued planning with the Land Trust and an eventual fundraising campaign. We are delighted to get the green light from the Land Trust board."

hand tools and construction techniques, and to review the principle and power of leverage.

Many students were amazed to see how the smaller trebuchet, whose sling extended to give it a longer arm than the catapult, threw its projectiles much farther.

In creating their coats of arms, the students practiced visual arts and explored what symbols and values were represented of them as individuals.

Throughout each day the youngsters were challenged to reflect upon the reality of life in medieval times — when siege engine were built of raw timber, helmets were hot, heavy steel, rather than aluminum foil, and Cheetos and cans of soda were absent from the lunch breaks.

Newry director Bill Brown was particularly worried about the effect on the high and middle school alpine ski teams.

With the previous schedule, he said, the teams were able to get to Sunday River Ski Resort for practice at around 2 p.m.

The change, he said, would have a significant negative effect on them, because of the early nightfall in winter.

Murphy said the administration would look into options for alleviating the problem.

Brown was the only dissenter when the vote on the schedule change was taken.

The descendants of the late Russell and Jessie McLean gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McLean and family on July 16 in East Andover. There were 79 attending. Of the nine living children, eight were able to attend, only a sister from Montana could not make the trip.

Relatives came from Florida, Louisiana and Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dorey been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Lindy Barrieault of Virginia for several weeks. They travel and live in their motor home, and the Doreys met them while in Florida. They had lived in Skowhegan years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thew have returned from a visit with their daughter and family in Plum Branch, S.C. From there they went to Fort Polk, La., where their grandson is stationed. On their way back home they visited with their son and family in Pennsylvania.

BETHEL SOCCER CAMP AT GOULD
Fifty-four local soccer players sweated it out last week at Bethel's weeklong soccer camp. Designed for children of varying soccer experience and skill, the camp is divided into three co-ed, age appropriate categories, technical skill training, and ending with small-group competition. Camp Directors Brett Shifrin and Brad Clarke both teach at Gould and have hosted and organized Bethel's soccer camp for six years. Present and former Gould students served as camp counselors. Brian Broderick, 2002 Gould graduate and captain of the UMF soccer team, is among those who are assisting the coaches. Others include current Gould varsity soccer captain Charles Parsons ('06), Will Carver ('06), Randy Savage ('06), Hannah Cowen ('06), Nagin Delapour ('07), Jonathan Parsons ('08), and Peter Cowen ('10).

by on Sunday afternoon and helped us put the room back together again. Looks great!

We noticed Friday morning that the pond lily in our little pond out in front of the house had decided to bloom. It is a pretty pink with a little white on it. There is a second one that should be out in a few days. I went to show the flower to someone around four o'clock in the afternoon and it had already closed up for the night. On Saturday morning, we decided to set out in the lawn swing beside the pond with our morning cup of coffee and relax before we got started on our weekend project. The lily began to open and within a half hour it had completely opened. You could almost watch it unfold before your eyes.

Bill and Gale Tout stopped by later in the day. We discussed the trials of trying to get plants to grow in a man-made pond. Their pond is a whole lot bigger than ours.

On Friday morning, we headed for Gorham, N.H., to do some shopping. Because of the construction above Gil-ead on Route 2, we have been taking the North Road to Shelburne and crossing over to Route 2. This is such a peaceful ride even though there are a lot of other people who have decided to do the same thing to avoid a delay waiting in line in the construction.

As we drove by Len Whiting's, we noticed him sitting out on his front lawn, so thought it would not be very neighborly to just drive by without saying hello. A quick dooryard call turned into about a half hour. It was just so peaceful sitting on Len's porch in his rocking chairs that we did not want to hurry on our way. We departed and let Len get on with trimming around the trees on his lawn, which looks very nice and green.

My brother, Steve McLain, had an e-mail from his son, Capt. Stephen McLain, this past week. Stephen is heading to Mississippi for his next assignment, which starts on Aug. 1. He and his family have been traveling from California, where they had been vacationing, to Mississippi.

Our son, Chris, of Albuquerque, N.M., called Sunday and checked in. He mentioned that there were a few lightning strikes that started brush fires that could be seen in the distance from the fifth floor of the building that his office is in. The other fires that are happening are not close, but the smoke makes things quite hazy some days.

Hanover

by Clem Worcester

There was a Special Town Meeting on Monday, July 18, for the purpose of voting on the proposed Town of Hanover Subdivision Ordinance. Elected moderator for the evening was Newry Select Person Wendy Hanscom. Most folks' questions had been answered at the Public Hearing that had been held before the Town Meeting. The 13 voters present quickly voted to adopt the ordinance. The meeting took place at the Town House.

The Hanover Select Board had their monthly meeting following the Special Town Meeting. The board discussed plans to improve the turn-around at the end of South Shore Road. There is a need to make improvements there so emergency equipment can be turned around. The board also continued their discussion about replacing Second Bridge on the Howard Pond Road.

It was the changing of the guard. On Wednesday, July 20, a reception and dedication took place at Plumbago Mountain Farm. Hosted by Bob Brown, Louise Jonaitis and Danny Schwind, the event was planned to acknowledge the transfer of ownership of the Plumbago Mountain mineral mines from International Paper to Plumbago Timber and Quarries. Among the notable guests were Ray Kaczorowski, International Paper vice pres-

Following a luncheon at Plumbago Mountain Farm the folks all traveled to the mine site where David Kimball, pastor of the Methodist Church at Rumford Center, gave a presentation and a prayer to dedicate the effort. Others who spoke were International Paper Vice President Ray Kaczorowski and Louise Jonaitis. Then Louise smashed a bottle of champagne against the ledge.

While the group toured another area on the mountain, Tom Gould and Company from Gardiner set and blew a dynamite charge opening a new section to be examined. There was some excitement as some interesting specimens were uncovered.

It was noted that the mining on Plumbago Mountain had been started many years ago and it had been inactive for many years. The new activity was said by some to be a more welcome project than mountain top homes and condominiums.

There will be a meeting for everyone interested in the Gardner Roberts Memorial Library on Friday, Aug. 5, at the Hanover Town Office.

The first plumes of goldenrod and the red bunchberries are heralding the onset of late summer. We're also seeing the nodding pink blossoms of the little pipsissewa along the forest roadside, as well as the white columns of pyrola, not to mention the ubiquitous milkweed.

Heads up: if you have a favorite blueberry patch, now's the time to visit it with your berry pail. We picked three or four quarts over the weekend. They seem to be a bit early this year, but they are plump and delicious, especially in pie.

The raspberries in our garden are abundant, as are the shiitake mushrooms on their logs near the brook. We've had our first meals of green beans and summer squash and look forward to many more.

The Bright Lights chard has also been tasted and deemed excellent. The first corn crop is well tasseled and has formed ears. We're probably a few weeks away from tasting it, though, alas!

While I haven't actually spotted the bird here, the northern three-toed woodpecker leaves unmistakable evidence, which I have seen. When it pecks a hole in a tree trunk, it clears away the bark all around it. So if you see a trunk with lots of raw wood showing around the holes, you'll know what's been there. The piledated woodpecker drills large, oblong-shaped holes, but leaves the bark intact.

On Sunday evening Mike and I were supper guests of Mary and Jules Haberman, along with the Kirk Siegels, the Eric Schwarzes, and the Peter Schwarzes. Jules and Mary moved here about a year ago from Arizona to be near their daughter, Margaret Haberman-Fake, and her family. They have built a beautiful home on Paradise Road, with decor that is very reminiscent of the southwest.

On Sunday I biked down to Sunday River Alpacas and was disappointed to find no alpacas yet in residence. However, Maureen Libby spoke with me on Monday and, with fingers crossed, reported that the first four alpacas should be there by the time this appears in print. Pumpkin, Andy, Eureka, and Sensation were due to arrive before Thursday the 28th. The others, including newborn male White Heat, will be along soon in later installments.

Maureen also related that the Arikara chickens, "Scrawny and her sisters," are quite grown up and ensconced in their coop. No eggs as yet, but I guess that takes a little more maturity. I can't wait to see their "technicolor" eggs.

We've had a brief break in the heat and humidity, and the cool nights have been refreshing and conducive to good sleeping. The dog days may have returned by the time you read this, but we'll deal with them when, as, and if. Hope to hear from you with news: 836-3011; dhoeh@megalink.net.

is an opening. We are thinking of you, Loretta, and hope you continue to gain.

While over there in Norway, we then called on our cousin, Wilma Taylor, at the Norway Rehab and Living Center and then we saw "Squeak" Buck and chatted a few minutes with him. We had a busy day but got a lot accomplished. The car automatically turns into Wendy's, which we enjoyed before coming home.

Thelma Dadnum has been in the Portland hospital and had an operation and is with her cousin in Fryeburg at the present time. We hope you, too, continue to gain, Thelma.

Diane Files Beaudoin and friend, Andy, called on Frances Grant and me one day this past week. Diane is our niece and she, too, has been in the hospital recently and is recovering from surgery.

We are enjoying fresh garden vegetables from the farm stands in the nearby areas. I will be glad to get some green tomatoes to make piccalilli. I have been out of our homemade relish and have heard enough complaints about the store-bought kind. Well, I do like my homemade kind best, too.

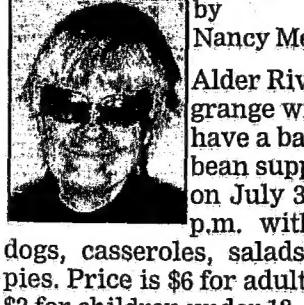

I am glad to have gotten what strawberries we did as Barton's Farm is all through picking now. They have other things on their stand, though.

We saw the Stoneham fire truck go out one day this past week and wondered where it went, but later found out that someone had reported they saw smoke on a mountain, but come to find out it was steam rising from the lake. It is better to be safe than sorry, they say. It was a hot day and a forest fire would have been bad.

Thank goodness for air-conditioners and fans. Are you people keeping cool?

Do not forget Senior Citizens. We meet at the North Waterford Church vestry on Wednesday, Aug. 3, for pot-luck lunch and meeting at 11:30 a.m. See you there.

Alder River grange will have a baked bean supper on July 30 at 5 p.m. with hot dogs, casseroles, salads, and pies. Price is $6 for adults and $3 for children under 13.

Rudi Honkala is at Norway Rehabilitation Center. He would like a visit from you.

Danielle Bernier of Duluth, Minnesota and friend, Anita Nelson, are visiting Andre and Flossie Bernier for two weeks.

On July 24, Andre and Flossie Bernier entertained Paul and Charlotte Kimball, Danielle, Anita, Jerry and Wendy at a big supper cookout.

Mary Bean and Arthur Hertell were in Rumford on July 24 to help his granddaughter, Kirsten, celebrate her 17th birthday.

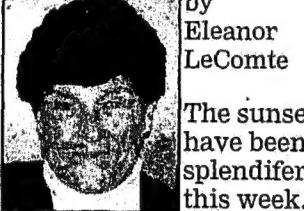

Arthur Hertell and Mary Bean were in Westbrook on July 18 and 19 visiting Steve and Pam Wojtysiak.

Denise and Joel Jackson and daughter, Jaylee, of Londonderry, N.H. visited daisy Coolidge from July 22 to 24. Jaylee stayed with daisy while her parents went camping.

Daisy Coolidge with Jaylee went to a birthday party for Sierra Ryerson on July 23.

If anyone has news, give me a ring at 824-3350. The past two days have been lovely with dry sunny weather. Have a nice week. God Bless the Troops.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte
The sunsets have been splendiferous this week.

There is a different one every evening. Clyde Stratton called to make sure we didn't miss an outstanding one. From his vantage point at Birch Point it appeared red, white and blue.

The flowers are at their peak bloom and the colors are wonderful. The rain did a little damage to the petals, but not too much.

The Ladies Aid women have been busy tying a quilt that was made by Lucille Largesse. The quilt is mounted in a frame and we all move into position under her guidance.

Of course, we never gossip while tying. That would not be proper.

A cabin is being built on Route 26 (Thistle Street). It should be very attractive. Jim Smith is the builder. There is a duplicate on Brooks Hill and it is an eye catcher. The one under construction is for sale and already offers are being made. It sits on the road on the former Mary and Alex LeComte's property.

Diane Williamson spent last week at her camp. She is constructing a "Shadow" quilt with a beautiful color scheme.

Visitors to Birch Point were Eric, Julia and son, little Ethan, and their friends from Westmont, N.J., Dave, Christine Donahue, Emily Rose and Alden, their children. The whole group climbed up to Table Rock in Grafton Notch on Thursday.

Joan and Dave Miller have returned after a visit to North Carolina.

Our front porch was crowded with friends on Sunday. There was no special occasion. It was just a warm, beautiful day. Mike Murphy, Barbara and Clyde Stratton and periodic visits from Paul Casey were enjoyed. Buster Williamson showed up with a quart of blueberries. The muffins this time of year are super.

Paul and Jennifer were visited by his brother and family. They enjoyed fishing, boating and the lake.

This weekend a loon fished the cove every day for hours. The sun danced off his remarkable feathers. We are now hearing their calls during much of the day. There are a few nests around the lake, which are being protected from well-meaning, curious humans.

A big bear has been seen on the southern side of Route 26. Since the blueberries are beginning to ripen, I imagine he is preparing for a feast.

There are warblers still in the bush chirping away. The kingfisher, always a favorite, is doing his thing diving into the lake. Ducks are scarce since most people have stopped feeding them. There were so many a few years ago, we feared they were polluting the lake.

Bob Yarnell has been helping Joy clear brush. Her son, Mike, also visited this week. Joy is still out of commission but recovering well.

Margaret Mitchell and Tex Fogwill have returned to their camp on Back Street. The Upton air is improving Tex's health every day.

Monday, Sue Nelson traveled to Vermont to attend a baby shower for her daughter Tara.

Roger Lavallee keeps busy with his many lawns, boat tours and fishing. His service is in demand for photographers and those desiring to see the many beautiful spots on the lake.

The "Bird of the Week" is the loon that is having fish dinners in the cove.

News regarding Bill Wight is that he was discharged from Mercy Hospital, is doing well, and will be recuperating for a few weeks at Ledgeview Living Center, West Paris 04289. Sylvia has gone down to stay with him. Best wishes for a speedy recovery and in returning home. Before he left Mercy Hospital, Gretchen, Melissa and Maureen stayed with Sylvia to help her as she could not be with Bill at that time.

There were quite a few flamingos on Robin and Greg Fraser's lawn. They are no longer there. I wonder what they meant.

Last Christmas, my nephew Philip, gave me some solar powered lights to put out this spring. They are doing a nice job of lighting my way up to a small area I call the Mesa. When my son was about five, I bought a small sphere, which spun around by solar energy. I think I enjoyed it more than he did. Now homes are heated and electrified by the Sun.

Leslie Robertson is busy these sunny days getting ready for the winter. I enjoy watching the Hereford cattle he raises as they in turn rear their young in the field adjacent to the Town Office.

Recently I noticed how nice Brenda and Bob Bartholomew's front porch looks with many lovely hanging baskets of flowers, I have been enjoying what they do each summer for quite a few years.

This week Karlene Bachelder's granddaughter, Julie Littelfield from Winthrop, visited her for a day. With Julie were her daughters, Alexis and Natalie.

It is nice to read about the Recycling Center and what a good job the men and women who work there do. For me it is a social event to go to the Center, a place where friends meet up with friends they have not seen for a while. There is a free table where it is okay to take things we might need and leave things for others that we do not need. I especially appreciate the wood I get to make kindling with. More appreciated is the friendliness with which they treat us.

Last weekend I saw Etheline Wight at the IGA. She is here visiting relatives and friends in the area. She was at her son, Mark and Mo's home and plans to head back to Arizona at the end of this month.

If you ever visit the Bronx Zoo, it is Scott Wight you would look for. I had the name wrong. Please accept my apology.

We have had a busy two weeks. Last weekend there was a lot of people here to visit Rena.

The second weekend in July was the Wyman Reunion in Eustis at Cathedral Pines. Some of the family was able to go and camp for the weekend. Albert and Marie stayed home with Rena, because she was just coming home from the hospital.

Kenny, Helen and their daughter Lisa and husband Don and their two children were here to visit from Kentucky. This is the first time that we have seen the two children.

A lot of the family and

A birthday party was held at the home of Brad and Brenda Wight for their son Kurt's 20th birthday on July 19. To help him celebrate were Jason, Sarah, Jordan and Payton Berry from Greenwood, Loretta Berry, Newry, John and Nancy Wight, Newry, Jeff and Casey Fleet from Hanover, Shirley and Sewall staples, South Rumford, his brother, Kevin and sister, Katie.

friends have been here to see Rena and this means a lot to her.

Faye and Leonas Holt are having their house painted and some of the siding replaced. Leonas has been back to the hospital to have more kidney stones seen to.

Robert Holt was coming to visit Faye and Leonas and stopped for a doctor appointment on the way and he had to be in the hospital for a few days himself. David Holt has been busy with Mary taking her to eye doctors' appointment in Boston.

Well, on a happier note, Ann Holt turned in her keys. So, now she is really retired and just in time to help out on the farm.

Rena would love to hear from family and friends. If you would like to send a card, the address is: Rena Curtis, 119 Hayes Hill Rd., Greenwood 04255.

Sorry my article did not get in last week. It has been a busy time here on the hill. Family has been coming to see Rena. Her grandson, Ed Heikkinen from Pensacola, Fla. was here for the week. He left at 2 a.m. on Sunday and called us around 2:30 p.m. to let us know he got home all right.

People around the area are talking about the bears. Well, we had one here last Sunday night.

We could hear him calling and we went to Rena's birdfeeder and then down to the woods out back.

Rena had a birthday on Wednesday, July 20. She is not 84 years young. We had cake and ice cream to help her celebrate.

Albert has off this week from work, so he will be here to help with Mom and get wood split for this winter.

See you next week.

RETIRED AT 97

Gil Seeley has retired — at 97 — as the North Newry correspondent for the Bethel Citizen. She began writing the column in 1991 at age 83, taking over from longtime correspondent Amy Hanscom. "I liked it — I got a kick out of it," she said. Seeley has been a Newry resident since the late 1960s, moving here from Rhode Island. Until a few years ago, her columns always included the weekly scores for the "Newry Bowling Gang," of which she was a member, along with accounts of human and animal activities in North Newry. A typical entry from May of 1992: "Members of the Newry Bowling Gang at Oxford Lanes Rumford were: Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley Louise Tetley, Bea Lowell and Jane Young. Betsy was high on the triples, beating Jane by two pins.... Deer tracks and deer have been spotted all around North Newry and elsewhere, some even in my own driveway."

are hoping to continue our monthly guest speakers starting in September. We would appreciate your help in suggesting speakers.

Also, if you have an interest that you would like to share with a small group, we would like to hear from you. We have had a good variety of subjects and are looking for more.

The next meeting of the Board of Trustees will be Oct. 20, at 3:30 p.m. at the library.

In addition to the books mentioned above, we also have two by Fern Michaels, "Texas Sunrise" and "Texas Fury"; Aron Ralston's, "Between a Rock and a Hard Place"; Stephen King's "Faithful (Red Sox Fans)"; and Dorothea Frank's, "Pawley's Island." We still have plenty of videos, are building up our DVD collection and have large print books and books on tape. Come in and check us out.

Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge

Come experience Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge in all its beauty this summer.

Along with fun on the lake, wildlife viewing opportunities are abundant. Take a leisurely walk along the Magalloway River located on Route 16 north of refuge headquarters. This one-eighth of a mile long, wheelchair accessible trail culminates at a wildlife viewing platform overlooking the river. Waterfowl and moose may be present at this scenic spot.

While enjoying the natural diversity of New Hampshire here at the refuge, come join us for the annual Umbagog Wildlife Festival, being held on Saturday, Aug. 13, co-sponsored with the town of Errol and the Umbagog Area Chamber of Commerce.

If vendors wish to reserve space for wildlife-related presentations or crafts, space rental information may be obtained by calling the refuge contact: Inaya Phoenix, Public Use Intern, (603) 482-3415.

Maine Handicapped Skiing

Maine Handicapped Skiing, Maine's largest year-round adaptive recreation program in Maine, is hosting the Summer Sports Challenge, a five-sport competitive relay race, on Saturday, Aug. 13 at Range Pond State Park, Poland.

Teams of up to six athletes swim, run, canoe, bike and kayak a total of 35 miles in and around Maine's most accessible state park. All athletes, able-bodied and disabled, are invited to participate in the Summer Sports Challenge.

The challenge course consists of a one-mile swim in beautiful Range Pond, a 5-mile run, a 4-mile canoe, a 20-mile bike in the park and on the surrounding scenic roads; and a 5-mile kayak in the pond.

There are eight team divisions, including All Men, All Women, Mixed (with at least one man and one woman on the team), Masters (all team members must be 40 or older) er), Iron Man or Iron Woman, Team Support (at least one athlete requires the physical assistance of a team member to compete in the sport) and Team Ability (at least one member on the team has a disability).

All challenge participants receive a Summer Sports Challenge t-shirt, a pre-race breakfast, post-race lunch and an awards ceremony.

Maine Handicapped Skiing's Summer Sports Challenge is generously supported by Sunday River Ski Resort, Cole Haan, TD Bank North, Joe Jones Ski & Sports, Hanger Prosthetics and Orthotics, Inc., Lincoln Canoes and Kayaks, Portland Press Herald/Maine Sunday Telegram, Maine Medical Center/Sports Medicine Department and Mr. Bagel.

Maine Handicapped Skiing (MHS), headquartered at Sunday River Ski Resort in Norway, is Maine's largest year-round adaptive recreational program for children and adults with physical disabilities.

Funds raised by the Summer Sports Challenge supports MHS's summer adaptive recreational activities including canoeing, kayaking, cycling, and golf. All lessons are free of charge to program participants.

For complete details on putting together a team for the Summer Sports Challenge or to be a volunteer for the event, call (800) 639-7770 or check out Maine Handicapped Skiing's website at www.skimhs.org/summersportschallenge.

From the White Mountain National Forest

Rental of the Black Mountain, Doublehead and Radeke Cabins on the White Mountain National Forest will soon be available through the National Recreation Reservation Service (NRRS).

The Saco Ranger District will continue to take reservations for these cabins for arrival dates through Feb. 28, 2006.

To rent one of the cabins on or after March 1, 2006, renters should contact the NRRS.

To reserve a cabin for an arrival date after March 1, 2006, you can contact the NRRS via: Phone: (877) 444-6777; TTY: (877) 833-6777; Internet: ReserveUSA.com.

NRRS will be able to take reservations by Aug. 1, and will take bookings 360 days in advance for arrival dates on or after March 1, 2006.

The change in reservation systems allows visitors to reserve the cabins 24 hours a day, using the same system they use to reserve campsites on the Forest. At least 95 percent of the cabin fee will be retained on the White Mountain National Forest to maintain recreation facilities.

Between 1935 and 1938, the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) constructed Black Mountain and Doublehead Cabins primarily for backcountry skiers. In 1969, the White Mountain National Forest purchased the Radeke Cabin, located on the Kancamagus Scenic Byway, from the University of New

All three rustic cabins are available for rent throughout the year. Wooden bunks, woodstoves (though there is no guaranteed supply of wood except at Radeke), and outside facilities are available at each of the cabins.

Visitors are asked to bring sleeping bags, sleeping pads, cooking equipment, and drinking water with them.

For additional information, please contact the Saco Ranger District at (603) 447-5448 or visit the White Mountain National Forest website at www.fs.fed.us/r9/white/.

From the Northern Forest Heritage Park

Join in a celebration of the Franco-American music, food, and art in the rustic atmosphere of the Logging Camp on the banks of the Androscoggin River. Enjoy the traditional music of the Smithsonian renowned Riendeau Brothers and others while you feast on an authentic "family style" French Canadian dinner featuring the Park's famous traditional "bean hole beans" from 4 p.m. until gone in the rustic atmosphere of the Logging Camp cookhouse.

Sing along at the Soiree Canadien with entertainment provided by some of the region's favorite Franco-American entertainers, Patti Berube and Anita Lavigne starting at 6 p.m. in the amphitheater. A collection of Bob Morin's Franco-American woodcarvings will be on display, along with Maurice Bugeau's wood crafts, and logging scenes by Larry Richards. Watch in awe as Brian Lamarre creates art with his chainsaw from a block of wood. View the wildlife exhibit and join in one of the interpretive presentations to learn more of the North Country wildlife. Poutine, french fries, ices cream, and hot dogs and ham burgers will round out the food offerings.

Children's crafts and activities such as a scavenger hunt, and lumberjack obstacle course, and Bobo the Clown will keep them engaged.

It's Festival du Bois time in the Androscoggin Valley, and the Northern Forest Heritage Park has announced these important programming changes and new opportunities for the Saturday, July 23, Celebration entering its seventh year.

Due to scheduling conflicts and circumstances beyond their control, trustees and Festival du Bois 2005 committee members have voted to shift the focus of this year's Festival du Bois activities from the Riverside Amphitheatre to the reproduction Logging Camp complex for this year's festivities.

Stating that celebrating and interpreting the region's Franco-American Heritage and its influence on the working forest story of Northern New Hampshire is very important to the Heritage Park mission, this year's activities will center in the circa 1900s reproduction cookhouse/bunkhouse.

According to Board of Trustees' president Haven Neal, "We hope that our members and supporters view this year's necessary changes as a positive ones and understand that our goal is to keep the spirit of French heritage and our cultural diversity alive in our community. We do hope to offer a larger festival and expanded activities in the future, and welcome the help of volunteers and corporate sponsors who want to help make that happen."

This year's bean hole bean dinner will include: beans, meat pie, homemade coleslaw, Donald G. Bennett, then president of the Bethel Historical Society, should be credited with naming the society's annual heritage festival, Sudbury Canada Days, which was first held in August 1980.

The first event began modestly enough. Among the features were an antique show in General Alger's barn on Broad Street (now the Gideon Hastings House), children's parade, craft demonstrations, historical film series, a Tom Sawyer fence-painting contest, a tour of 18th century sites in Bethel, a slide presentation on Bethel's architectural heritage, an old fashioned church service and an old-time concert at the Middle Intervale Meetinghouse.

Sudbury Canada was Bethel's original name, which was officially used from the date of granting in 1768 until 1796 when it was incorporated as the town we know today. The earlier name honored the original grantees from Sudbury, Mass., who had fought unsuccessfully to conquer Canada in 1690.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts rewarded these veterans with land in the "District of Maine," naming it in honor of their Massachusetts town and the campaign in which they served. Rev. Eliphaaz Chapman is generally credited with naming Bethel, which comes from the Bible, meaning "House of God."

This year's event will be held on Aug. 12-14 and promises to be bigger and better than ever with a wide range of activities for all ages.

Over 1,300 members strong, the Bethel Historical Society, founded in 1966, is western Maine's largest and most comprehensive full-time historical agency, dedicated to collecting, preserving, and interpreting the regional past for present and future generations.

For nearly forty years, the society's activities have included lectures, exhibits, special events, heritage festivals, workshops, conferences, school and educational programs, and publications. Since 1974, the society has operated from its Broad Street headquarters, the Dr. Moses Mason House, a period house museum and research library.

Swains celebrate 60th anniversary
On July 23, an open house was held at the Andover Town Hall for one of Andover's oldest couples, Violet and Robert Swain, of East Andover on their 60th wedding anniversary. One hundred and ten friends and family gathered to honor them.

Violet Peters, a former teacher in Andover, in 1938, and Lt. Robert B. Swain, serving in the Air Force were married at the First Baptist Church, Fairfield, on July 25, 1945. They were blessed with three sons, Robert J. Swain, II, Rodney and Ross. They now have six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren with another due in December.

Violet keeps busy with her flower gardens around the house that Robert has lived in since he was 2 years old. She is president of the Maine State 1918 Club and in the East Andover Community Club. She is the only living charter member of the club, which formed in 1938.

Robert retired as owner of R.J. Swain Dowel Co. During his last 66 years he has owned 14 airplanes. His last one is owned by his son, Robert, in Kentucky. He enjoys snowmobiling and using his Kubota tractor.

Attending the Open House were friends and relatives from Kentucky, Vermont, California, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts, and 14 Maine towns and cities.

They received beautiful cards, floral arrangements and gifts.

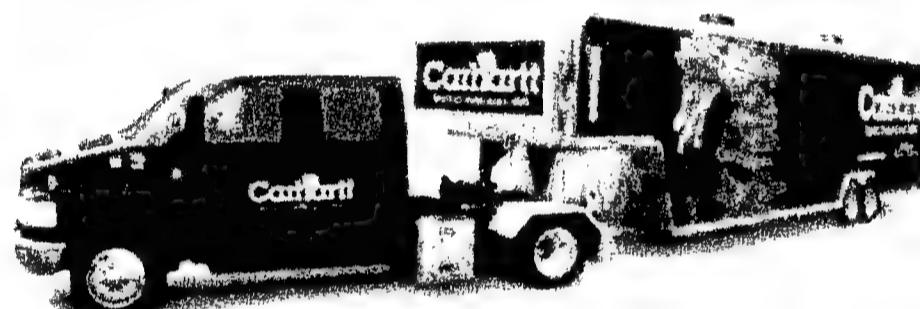

The Andover Service Circle took care of serving food and the decorations. Ross Swain had charge of the music. The cake was decorated in Air Force colors, blue and yellow, and the original top dating to 1945 was used. There were clothes worn 60 years ago on display and pictures of their lives.

Robert's sister, Amelia Entin, Weyland, Mass., was the only member of the wedding party to attend. Two bridesmaids were unable to attend.

Granddaughter Lucie Swain and grandson Matthew Swain had charge of the guest book. One other grandson, Gregory, also attended. Many of Violet's students were present.

She came to Andover at the age of 19, but it was seven years later before she and Robert were married.

REALTOR EARN'S SRES DESIGNATION

Bonita M. Sessions has earned the Seniors Real Estate Specialist (SRES) professional designation of the Senior Advantage Real Estate Council in Murphys, California.

According to a prepared release, Seniors Real Estate Specialists help seniors make wise decisions about selling the family home, buying rental property, managing the capital gains and estate tax implications of owning real estate, obtaining a reverse mortgage, moving to a senior community, and other issues.

Sessions, who has been in the real estate business since 1988, is a certified public accountant and the designated broker and owner of Apple Tree Realty in Bethel.

By earning the SRES designation, the release said, Sessions has demonstrated that she has the requisite knowledge, experience and expertise to be a seniors real estate specialist.

The Senior Advantage Real Estate Council (SAREC) tracks the special issues and needs of senior property owners and provides education to realtors who make seniors an important focus of their business. The SRES designation was introduced in 1997.

Sessions can be reached at 824-7244 or bonita@appletreerealty.com.

HURD TOP INSTRUCTOR AGAIN

Jason Hurd, golf director at The Bethel Inn and Resort Country Club in Bethel, Maine has been named "2005 Golf Digest's Top Instructor in Maine."

This is the second time Hurd received the honor. The first award was during the 2003 season. "We're extremely excited and proud of Jason and his accomplishments", said Allen Connors, managing partner at The Bethel Inn. "Jason has worked very hard in developing our Guaranteed Performance School of Golf into one of the most popular golf school programs in New England."

Hurd has worked at The Bethel Inn Resort and Country Club for the past 14 years. He has been the director of golf for the past 5 years and became a PGA Member in 1999. In 2001, he became director of instruction for the inn's Guaranteed Performance School. Hurd will be featured in the August issue of Golf Digest.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

WORKING WITH APPRAISERS

After the buyer and seller come to a "meeting of the minds" on the price of a house, there is one more person who must be convinced that the house is worth the selling price - the mortgage company's appraiser. The appraiser looks for three or more comparable houses that have sold in the same area within the last six or so months, and compares the selling prices of these homes with the one you are buying. They make adjustments to account for the differences in each property, and the price for your house will be the average of the adjusted prices of the other homes. In subdivisions or condominium projects where there are many similar properties and plenty of recent sales, the appraiser has enough information to base his price on. In neighborhoods of older homes that have been renovated or remodeled over the years, it can be like comparing apples and oranges. In some cases, the professional appraiser will use other success-proven techniques to determine a realistic market value.

If the appraiser's evaluation is lower than the agreed-upon purchase price, it can threaten the transaction if the lender declines the buyer's loan based on the appraisal. In that case, the help of a knowledgeable Realtor can be a valuable asset in the transaction.
